15RC33 - The National Cuisine Act

WHEREAS , no other eatery can conceivably compete with Taco Bell for the sheer amount of Talossanity spewed forth within its walls, and WHEREAS Mexican food is good and popular among a broad swath of Talossans (whether or not they have been seduced by the wiles of Latin rhythms etc.), Therefore the Cosá hereby declares that Talossa's nation cuisine, inasmuch as it's possible for a country that routinely eats fast food and microwave lunches to have one, is more or less the same as Taco Bell food. King Robert I is called upon to use his lingual skills to create Talossan names for said food. (Example: "burrito" in Spanish means "little donkey"--probably because of the meat they use. Talossan for "little donkey" is asinét. So a burrito in Talossan is an asinét.) ¡Viva Talossa!

Ben Madison (PC-Vuode)

15RC34 - The Ureu q'Estadra Sa Amendment

The words "Proposed By" in Art. 62 of the Constituziun are changed to read "Uréu q'Estadra sã" (or "proposed by"). This has the effect of allowing either choice of wording to be used by MCs when proposing bills. In English the new text means "I petition that it might be so."

15RC35 - It's Midnight in Talossa... Do You Know Where Your Voters Are?

WHEREAS , few of us really want to hang around John's neighborhood at midnight, and WHEREAS having election deadlines come at midnight leads to some weird situations and is disruptive to some schedules, Therefore, notwithstanding the purely traditional practice of "keeping the polls open" till midnight of the last day of an election (or of a month, for Clark purposes), the Secretary of State is hereby instructed to keep a sort-of conventional "business day" where the deadline for any official RT business (ballots, Clarks, etc.) is set at 7:30 p.m. of the day in question.

Uréu q'estadra sã,
Ben Madison (PC-Vuode)
