17RC01 - The FLUNK Debunk Act

WHEREAS ; the official "sacred shrine of Talossa." FLUNK, controlled by formerly reasonable and mature-for-their-age Citizens Nick Kovac and Andrew Worm, which had been granted "full provincial-like authority" (LC17, 9/92; LC9, 3/93), has been in an official state of rebellion against teh Kingdom since last July (refusing to recognize the legitimate, democratically-elected national Governments}, Therefore the Cosâ hereby officially revokes the quasi-independent status of FLUNK, returning its territory fully to Mussolini Province; and the governing thereof to that of Mussolini Province as well. Likewise, Kovac's and Worm's provincial citizenship is returned to that of their province of residence (namely, Vuode).

17RC02 - The You can run but you can't hide Act

WHEREAS a tradition has grown up in RT politics of mailing campaign literature directly to voters, and WHEREAS this wreaks havoc not only with opposition parties (who have no opportunity to see what they're being charged with) as well as with historians (who can't quote the campaign literature to see what the issues in the election really were), Therefore the Cosâ hereby mandates the following: If any political manifesto, leaflet or advert is drafted by any political party or organisation for mass distribution to two or more Talossan voters, a copy of that document must be deposited at the same time with the Secretary of State, for immediate transfer to the Müstáit Naziunál (National Archives), for public viewing. Violations shall be punished by the levying of a $3 fine for every such document not deposited.

Proposed by: Robert Madison (PC-Vuode)

[repealed by decision of Uppermost Cort, 30 July 1994/XV]

Uréu q'estadra sã,
Ben Madison (PC-Vuode)

The Cosâ hereby established the Commission Royal on Amending and Adapting the Principles (CRAAP) to study the question of whether or not the Vague Principles recently abolished can be rewritten and improved, limiting their vagueness and preserving them as central truths in the RT Constituziun. John Jahn, wes Erni and Ben Madison are nmaed to the CRAAP Commission, which may admit new members by majority vote. The CRAAP is instructed to report back to the Cosâ within two monhts of the adoption of this legislation.
