40RZ01 - The TAIAD Act

WHEREAS Talossa is a community of individuals from diverse backgrounds with many who have direct knowledge of the frailty and insecurity of the human condition; and

WHEREAS Talossa is a member of the community of nations and has both the wherewithal and the responsibility to contribute to its maintenance and general welfare; and

WHEREAS Talossa will exceed such responsibility and by doing so continue its long tradition as a beacon of freedom, uniqueness and goodwill towards all other peoples of goodwill; and

THEREFORE, the sense of the Ziu is that, under the auspices of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, a new agency to administer such humanitarian efforts known as the Talossan Agency for International Aid and Development (TAIAD) should be created, with the follows points of operation:

I. The TAIAD shall be administered by a Director to be appointed by the Minister of Foreign Affairs with the approval of the Seneschal.

II. Activities of the TAIAD shall be funded by donations from individuals or nongovernmental organizations (NGOs) and, where deemed appropriate by the Ziu, legislative appropriations

III. All TAIAD funding decisions are subject to the following approval protocol: (i). The TAIAD Director (ii). The Minister of Foreign Affairs (iii). The Seneschal

IV. All funding decisions must be preceded by notification of the Ziu by the Agency Director and the Minister of Foreign Affairs within the Clark that such decision will be implemented, including full details of recipient(s) and funds assigned, at least 7 days before the planned date of donation.

V. To ensure transparency and accountability, the Agency Director shall be responsible for the development and maintenance of an agency website providing the total amount of funds at the Agency's disposal, a history of all agency funding decisions and information on the donation/appropriation process.

Uréu q'estadra sã,

40RZ02 - The Gagggle of Substitutes Act

Whereas, Talossans are fervent food and beverage enthusiasts with a boundless ability to enjoy epicurean delights; and

Whereas, the fine Tex-Mex offerings of Taco Bell with its unlimited access to soda refills are the official ethnic cuisine of the Kingdom of Talossa; and

Whereas, not all citizens of the Kingdom live in areas that have Taco Bell restaurants; and

Whereas, all citizens have the right to enjoy our national ethnic cuisine; and

Whereas, cognizant of this situation, Z-Tec is encouraged as an emergency substitute; and

Whereas, citizens that live in areas without a Z-Tec or a Taco Bell still have no substitute for enjoyment of our official ethnic cuisine; and

Therefore, be it hereby resolved that the Ziu:

Add Del Taco, Green Burrito, Red Burrito, Maui Tacos, Taco John's, Chiquitos, Q'doba, and Chipotle to the list of acceptable substitutes for the enjoyment of our official ethnic cuisine;

Consider local Tex-Mex cuisine offerings as acceptable substitutes should none of the above mentioned options be available;

Encourage citizens to enjoy our national ethnic cuisine, Taco Bell, one of the above-listed substitutes, or a local Tex-Mex offering in their area in celebration of Talossan Independence Day (December 26th).

40RZ3 - The Talossifying of the Penguins Act

WHEREAS according to the Organic Law, the Talossan language is the official language of our nation, and

WHEREAS this doesn't seem to be respected, since many official names in Talossa are in other languages, mainly English, and

WHEREAS this is the case in the Antarctic Territory of Pengöpäts, the shires of which are named in English, and

WHEREAS the names of these shires can be translated into the Talossan language, and THEREFORE the Ziu hereby states that the shires of Pengöpäts known as Coldstrand, Evaniana, and Uttersouth, as well as the Territorial capital, Everwhite, now have official Talossan forms, respectively: Platxafred, Adiensiäna, Sudurbenia, and Schembiança. The non-Talossan forms may be used as an alternative by those not familiar with the Talossan Language, although the Ziu encourages all Talossan citizens to use the Talossan forms as a way of demonstrating respect and admiration for our wonderful language and our great nation.

40RZ04 - The Habeas Corpus Enforcement Act

40RZ4 - The Habeas Corpus Enforcement Act

WHEREAS The "right to a speedy trial" is guaranteed to all Talossan citizens under the Ninth Covenant of Rights and Freedoms; and

WHEREAS This right is not further clarified, nor in any way defined; and

WHEREAS the lack of explanation and definition of such an important right may cause that right to be subsequently denied the accused, with or without the intent of said right being denied; and

WHEREAS such an important right must be clear and concise in order to ensure the proper enforcement thereof; now

THEREFORE

In the interest of providing the accused with the rights granted to him by the ninth Covenant of Rights and Freedoms, the following rights shall be considered to be inalienable and shall be afforded to all citizens in civilian trials:

- 1. The accused must be informed of the charges against him by the Crown within seven days of said charges being accepted by any national or provincial court.
- 2. Such notification must be submitted to the accused in writing, by either an electronic medium such as email, a typed letter, or by a handwritten letter. A copy of every such notice shall be archived in the Royal Archives by the Royal Archivist immediately after he receives a copy of said notice. If the notice is given in the form of a hand-written letter, the Royal Archivist shall make a copy of the letter in an electronic format, such that it may be added to the Royal Archives.
- 3. The Crown shall have up to 90 days from the time of notification of the accused in which to prepare its case. If a case is not prepared by the Crown within the allotted time, a mistrial shall be declared and the charge or charges against the accused shall be rendered null and void.
- 4. If a case is not prepared within the 90 days limit then the prosecution may request up to an additional 30 days to prepare its case, which shall be granted or denied by the justice assigned to the case. This section takes precedence over section [c]
- 5. The decision shall be based on the legitimacy of reasons given by the Crown, in the interests of justice, equality, and neutrality.
- 6. If a case is declared null and void then final jeopardy shall apply unless the prosecution is able to provide new evidence against the accused with which to build a case. If a new case is tried then the old evidence may not be used or taken into consideration. A new case must meet the same statute of limitations as described previously.
